The Beautiful Decoy.

From the Unpublished Chronicle of a Traveler.

It is well known to all in any degree familiar with the history of Mexico, that a regular system of highway robbery exists in every section of that miserably governed country; and that through a want of interference of the authorities, this has grown up into such a regular and formidable shape, that every traveler must be prepared to put his life at hazard at every stage, or be provided with a suitable contribution for los caballeros del camino (the knights of the road,) who, in the event of finding you prepared and willing, will make their levy with a politeness only equalled by the smiling landlord, when he receives your overcharged fare for your last night's entertainment. Why such systematic boldness of robbery is allowed—if not with the connivance, at least with rarely any interference of the government or state authorities—is one of those mystical matters which among many others, so puzzle and perplexes the intelligent foreigner, but that such is the disagreeable truth every traveler through that wretched country can bear ample testimony.

Some years ago, having business which first called me to the Capital of Mexico, and thence through the interior of the country to the northward, I met with several thrilling adventures, which I have recorded for the benefit of whomsoever may take an interest therein, omitting only the dates, they being non-essential to the interest of the narrations themselves.

The first of the series occurred on the route between Vera Cruz and the City of Mexico. In the regular diligence running between the places just mentioned, I had taken passage, and had passed through the beautiful City of Jalapa, and entered the gloomy town of Perote without meeting with any unusual incident, though being continually warned to be on my guard against the dangers of the road. At Perote, where we halted for a relay and refreshments, all my fellow-passengers took leave of me, very solemnly assuring me that if assailed by the ladrones, or robbers, it would be much better for me to take matters quietly, and suffer myself to be genteelly plundered, than to run the risk of having my throat cut for resistance, as I had somewhat boldly proclaimed it was my intention of doing. I thanked them for their advice, and replied that I would take the matter into serious consideration.

At Perote, I repeat, all who had been my companions from Vera Cruz took leave of me, this being the end of their journey in that direction, but there was one new passenger here to go forward, whom, to my agreeable surprise, I found to be a beautiful young lady, some twenty years of age.

Senorita Paula, as I subsequently ascertained her name to be, was indeed one of those rare beauties seldom met with except in works of fiction—tall, graceful, with a profusion of long, black hair—soft, sweet, melting dark eyes—features as perfect as ever came from the hands of the sculptor and with an animation the most fascinating, varying in expression with every changing mood of the intellectual possessor. A glance at her bewitching dark eyes showed me that she was one who was naturally of social disposition; and as we rattled away from the gloomy town, I took the liberty of opening a conversation.

"Pray tell me," said I, "that the route between here and Mexico is a very dangerous one to travel."

"There is little to fear," she replied, with a sweet smile and in a melodious tone, "except from the professional robbers, and they seldom harm any one who makes no resistance."

"It seems strange to me," I rejoined, "that you Mexicans should take such things as a matter of course, and deem resistance a very impolite way of treating the knights of the road, instead of boldly asserting your rights, and abating the evil by a manly spirit of resistance. For myself, I must consider it the most cowardly of proceedings, for any respectable party to set out prepared to quietly gratify the cupidity of the ladrones, and unprepared to treat them to their just deserts."

'Every traveler, Senor,' she replied, 'should before setting out, count the cost of his journey, and as of course it is natural he should value his life highly, it seems to me natural that he should pay a certain sum for positive safety rather than put that life in jeopardy.—For instance, in traveling from Vera Cruz to Mexico, if he will but reckon that so much is the fare by the diligencia, and that so much will be required for entertainment on the way, and so much for the contingency you speak of, he will then have the exact cost between two points; and if he will look at the whole as the sum total of his journey, he will not seem to be robbed by any one party more than another.'

'That,' I replied, 'may be, I believe is, the Mexican mode of doing business but does not tally with the preconceived ideas of us foreigners.'

'But every one,' replied the fair speaker, 'should conform to the customs of the country he visits.'

'And do you then go prepared for this highway robbery? and have you no fear in thus journeying by yourself?'

'Well, Senor, what can I do? I am as you perceive an unprotected lady; who for certain reasons, am required to make the journey between Perote and the Capital some twice or thrice a year, and you certainly could not expect me to go prepared to resist an armed band! As to fear, I will not deny I have my share of that; but, so far, I have never met with any rough treatment, and of course I trust to the saints that my fortune will ever be as propitious.'

'And have you really been robbed on your journey back and forth?' I inquired.

'I think I have paid my share to the ladrones for my transit through this country!' she laughed.

'And you expect to continue a repetition of the same for the rest of your life?'

'Who knows?' she replied. 'At least I hope to be always prepared.'

'And your fellow-travellers,' said I, 'have you never seen any disposed to resist these unlawful acts?'

'Once, Senor, an American and an Englishman, who were in the same diligencia with me, fired upon the robbers, killing one and wounding two.'

'And did the robbers fire back?'

'Yes, but fled immediately, and fortunately injured none of our party.'

'As I should have expected,' returned I.—'You were not robbed on that occasion, I suppose?'

'We were not, Senor; but the two foreigners subsequently paid dearly for their resistance; for in journeying back and forth, both were killed, separate and at different times, near the same spot. You see those crosses by the side of the road, Senor?'

'I have observed them frequently, but here they seem to be much more numerous,' I replied, looking forth from the vehicle.

'Each stands on the spot where some one has met a violent death,' she rejoined; 'and as we go along, I will call your attention to those which mark the places where the foreigners met theirs.'

'Do you know,' said I, 'that I am resolved to emulate their example, let the consequences be what they may?'

'Holy saints defend us!' she exclaimed; 'you are not in earnest, Senor?'

'Seriously so, I assure you.'

'You would only bring certain death upon us both.'

'Say rather, I should lighten the expenses of the journey—for your knights of the road understand retreat as well as advance—and you yourself have acknowledged that firm resistance put them to flight for once.'

'But there were numbers opposed to them, Senor, and you are only one.'

'But fortunately I have a couple of revolvers, which, in two good hands, amount to some ten or a dozen shots, and my friends have repeatedly told me I am not a bad marksman.'

'Ah! Santa Maria! you will think better of this, Senor—the very idea of resistance terrifies me!'

'But not the idea of robbery?'

'Because I have never met with violence.'

We continued to converse in a similar strain for some time longer—my fair companion gradually changing the subject, and seeming much interested in myself. I learned that her family name was Valerde, that she was unmarried, that her father and brother were officers in the army, and so forth, and so on, and in return I gave her my own name, stated something of my history, business and prospects, and altogether became more communicative than I would advise any friend to be with any stranger of either sex in a strange country.

We continued our journey, the conversation gradually turning from one thing to another. Senorita Paula suddenly brought it back to the point where it first opened.

'We are coming upon a dangerous part of the road,' she said, 'you are still resolved to defend yourself if assailed?'

'With your permission, Senorita?'

'I don't think it advisable,' she replied, 'but still if such be your intention, I think it no more than right you should give me a chance to take a part in my defence, since my risk of danger will be as great as yours!'

'If I had the means, Senor.'

'I have two pistols,' said I, 'if you will accept of one of them, it is at your service.'

"You are very kind, Senor—but can I use it?"

"With ease, Senorita," and producing one of my revolvers, I explained to her the manner in which it was to be used.

"And this, you say, will shoot some half a dozen times?"

"I think it safe to calculate that five charges out of six will explode, Senorita!"

"A very formidable weapon, indeed!" she replied, "and with such I can almost fancy we are safe. You have another, you say, like this?"

I produced it.

"What a beautiful invention!" she observed, reaching over and taking it from my hand. Then extending her hands, one of the revolvers in each, she continued "Armed like this, one might almost count himself safe against a host! You say this is fired in this manner," she proceeded, cocking one of the weapons as she spoke, and pointing it toward the road.

"Have a care, Senorita, or you will discharge it!"

The words were scarcely uttered, when her finger pressed the trigger, and one of the barrels was exploded with a sharp report. A minute after, and while I was chiding her, we heard a loud, quick tramp of horses, and several sharp, rapid exclamations. The next moment our conveyance was stopped suddenly, and we saw ourselves surrounded by some eight or ten mounted men, one of whom, in a loud voice exclaimed.

"Yield you prisoners, or die!"

"Quick, Senorita," said I, extending my hand; "quick! in Heaven's name, give me one of those weapons, for now is our time for decisive action!"

"Nay," she replied, putting the weapons behind her, "you will be too hasty. Let them suppose we yield—let them open the door."

"Oh, no! it will then be too late!"

As I spoke, the door was suddenly thrown open, and three or four swarthy, heavily-bearded men presented themselves to my view.

"Quick, Senorita, for the love of God!" I cried, grasping at her arm.

"Hold!" she exclaimed, instantly presenting one of my own revolvers to my head—"Resistance is useless—you are our prisoner."

"Good God!" exclaimed I, perfectly astounded. "Our prisoner did you say? It is not possible that one so fair and lovely as yourself is in any manner connected with these banditti!"

"It is even so, Senor," she replied with one of her most bewitching smiles, still keeping one of my own weapons turned against myself, and significantly pointing the other to the door. "You will oblige us by stepping forth and giving yourself in to the care of these good gentlemen, who will see that you are treated as a brave man should be, but who will trouble you meantime for any little change and valuables you might have to spare!"

There seemed to be no help for it—the beautiful Senorita Paula Valerde was a spy and accomplice of the Ladrones. She had entered the diligencia at Perote for no other purpose than to ascertain the exact condition of things inside, and be able to signalize her associates as she passed along, so that they might know exactly in what manner to conduct themselves and make their work sure without risk. By a simple stratagem she had obtained my arms, just at the point where she knew the attack would be made; and her discharge of the pistol, as if by accident, was the signal to show them that all was secure.

"I acknowledge myself conquered by being outwitted!" said I, bowing to the Senorita.

Then turning to the robbers, who had now collected in a body in front of the door of the diligencia, I continued—

"Gentlemen, will you permit me to alight and make you some valuable presents? In the language of your country, all I have is yours."

The leader of the party bowed politely in return, and said, with a grim smile—

"Si, Senor, we shall be most happy to receive anything which so distinguished a traveller may have to bestow."

With this I quietly stepped from the vehicle; and one quick, searching glance put me in possession of the whole state of affairs. The diligencia had been stopped in a wild, gloomy place, and the driver was sitting carelessly on his box, taking everything as a matter of course. He might also be an accomplice of the robbers, or he might not; but, in either case, there was little hope of assistance from him—any attempt of the kind would certainly bring upon him severe punishment, sooner or later. I glanced up and down the road, where it wound between dark overshadowing trees, but discovered nothing to give me any hope. The robbers, some eight or ten in number, and all well armed, were collected around me, part of them mounted and the others standing on their feet, holding their mustangs by the bridle. Looking upon my case as a desperate one, so far as being plundered was concerned, I still retained my presence of mind, and did not wholly despair. True, I had been outwitted and disarmed, and now stood singly between numbers; but the idea of yielding tamely to this outrage was repugnant to my very nature, and I resolved to put the least favorable opportunity for defence and retaliation to the strongest test.

"Will you accept this purse," said I, producing one that held several gold coins, and handing it to the chief of the ladrones.

"Thank you, Senor, you are very kind," he said, as he took it into his hand, with a polite bow, and chinked the money.

"This diamond pin may prove acceptable to your friend?" I added, as I quietly removed it from the bosom of my shirt, and handed it to the gentleman on his left, who received it in the same polite manner. "This diamond ring, I trust you will retain as a keepsake," I continued, drawing the jewel from my finger and presenting it to a third. "I beg your pardon, Senores, I pursued, glancing at the Senorita Paula, who, with my pistols still in her possession, was quietly sitting within the diligencia, regarding the whole proceedings with one of her sweetest smiles. "I must not forget this beautiful lady. I have here," I went on, at the same time producing [illegible] very beautiful gold snuff box—[illegible], as you perceive, with diamonds—[illegible] honor me by accepting this as a slight token of my regard for the pleasure afforded me by your company and conversation."

"You are a very gallant gentleman, Senor," she laughed, taking the two revolvers in one fair hand, and reaching the other.

I reached the box toward her—her hand trembled a little—and just as the present was about to touch her fingers, it slipped and fell between us.

"A thousand pardons, Senorita, for awkwardness!" I said, as I bent down to pick it up.

Now was the all important moment—the moment of life and death! All were in a measure off their guard, and one quick, furtive glance showed me [illegible] my weapons in one hand, with the other remaining extended for the prize. I lifted the box carefully, but as I raised it [illegible] I gave a wild, startling yell, and as the Senorita started back, I, with the quickness of lightning, seized both weapons, and wrenched them from her.

To wheel and commence firing upon the party, was now only the work of a moment. The first shot, fortunately, stretched out the chief, the second took effect on the one nearest to him, and by the time the third had been sent to his mission, there arose one simultaneous yell of dismay, and the [illegible] began to scatter in every direction. I had no disposition to follow them, however, another minute they might rally and [illegible] upon me, and springing forward I [illegible] the reins of a freed mustang, and vaulted into the saddle. They would doubtless have [illegible] me [illegible] pursuit, but [illegible] they [illegible] As it was I [illegible] the town of [illegible] in triumph, where it is almost needless to add, a narrative of my [illegible] Here I sold my captured mustang [illegible] enough [illegible] I had disposed of in the way of presents, and the next day saw me an inside passenger of the same diligencia, en route for Mexico, where I arrived in safety without any [illegible] event worthy of note.

What became of the robbers and their beautiful accomplice I never learned, [illegible] son taught me on the journey I have never forgotten, and during [illegible] stay in that country, no party [illegible] had the honor of being my business confidante [illegible] my trusty and unfailing revolvers.

Liberia and Western Africa.

"Animating intelligence has been received from the multiplying missionary stations in Liberia and from many other parts of Northern and Southern Africa. Native Africans have been educated for the Christian ministry, and many thousand native children are receiving instruction in mission schools and made familiar with the primary lessons of Christianity. The immortal seed of divine truth has been planted in many hearts opened to receive it and the fruits of righteousness begin to adorn the lives of those but recently reclaimed from the cruel superstitions of a barbarous life. The student may find in some of the schools of Liberia the means of acquiring a respectable classical education. In Sierra Leone, young men are qualified for the ministry by instruction in Greek, Hebrew and Arabic.

In stating the results of missionary efforts in Western Africa, during the last twenty-five years, the Princeton Review states recently, 'What, then, has been the effect in that time? More than one hundred Christian churches have been organized in that country, and upwards of fifteen thousand hopeful converts have been gathered into these churches.—Nearly two hundred schools are in full operation, in connection with these various missions, and not less than sixteen thousand native youths are receiving a Christian training in those schools at the present moment. More than twenty different dialects have been studied out and reduced to writing, into many of which, large portions of the sacred Scriptures, as well as other religious books have been translated among the people, and we are no doubt in the bounds of truth and probability, when it is assumed that some knowledge of the Christian salvation has been brought by direct means, within the reach of at least five millions of immortal beings, who had never before heard of the blessed name of the Saviour.'

The College of Liberia, will, it is expected, be soon opened for the admission of students. Two young medical students from Liberia, are now completing their course of study at the Medical College of New Haven, Connecticut; while three colored students of theology at the Ashmun Institute, Oxford, Pennsylvania, are expecting to sail for Liberia in May next, to enter upon their missionary labor amid those sitting in darkness, yet ready to welcome the messengers of Christ, and bear of the light and deliverance of the Gospel.

The number of emigrants sent to Liberia the last year has been unusually small, owing to several causes incidental to the progress of that Republic, which, as resting upon no fast foundation, cannot be permanent. Of the fifty-three emigrants who sailed November 1st, in the ship Stevens, twenty were from Cambridge, Mass., members of the Cambridge Liberia Emigrant Association—(a company of one hundred and fifty persons intending to remove to Liberia)—a small number only, including the President of the Association and his family, being ready to embark in our last expedition. These emigrants are represented to be worthy, and held in esteem by the citizens of Cambridge, and others acquainted with their character. They go out with cheerfulness, and with the expectation that many of the colored people of New England will follow. Their occupation will be that of agriculture on the banks of the St. Pauls; and as the movement on their part has been entirely voluntary, the greater will be the honor and the influence, should success attend them.

Probably the appointment of a general consular or commercial agent to reside in Africa, and authorized to accompany our squadron to the various points on the coasts to negotiate treaties of amity and commerce, for the suppression of the slave trade with the native chiefs, to conciliate their regard, and by observation and inquiry to prepare the way, the means, and the agencies of civilization, would accomplish a great good. We stand before the world as a Christian nation; and the people of the United States, since the origin of their government, have held the African slave trade as a crime, an abomination."

TRICKS AND TRAPS. The following extracts, which we take from a recent article in the Kennebec Journal, indicate the tricky and treacherous plan of campaign which has been concocted by the hunkers of either wing of the democracy, and of which we have for some time seen evidences. There is no doubt that many of Buchanan's office-holders are secretly affiliating with the Douglasites, and while pretending to sustain the administration, are really aiding and abetting Smart & Co., in their movement to get control of the party.

But the trickery is still deeper than this,—and we warn Republicans to beware of it. It embraces a design to deceive the people, by keeping up an appearance of war between the factions when they have in fact agreed in secret,—and after thus acquiring sympathy and favor for the "popular sovereignty" wing, and perhaps getting some unwary Republicans into entangling alliances for the coming election, the administration wing will suddenly "wheel about" and join the squatter sovereigns in a desperate attempt to take the State by surprise out of the hands of the party of freedom.—After which, and in 1860, (whether this famous scheme succeeds or not,) the Douglasites will lay aside their popular sovereignty pretences, as having served their turn, and go in for the Charleston nomination. The chief leader, Smart, and the chief organ, the Augusta Age, have turned precisely the same kind of summersets upon the Wilmot Proviso and Missouri Compromise questions—and they are worthy coadjutors in the present plan. The Republicans, however, being forewarned will be forearmed, and the notable scheme will miss fire. Let the friends of freedom understand, that in Maine at least, the most bitter and determined of all the enemies of our cause, are the Smart and Sewell faction of the democracy—the pretended "popular sovereignty" or Douglas wing of the party—and beware of their attempts to deceive and inveigle Republicans by an apparent opposition to the doctrines and measures of the Administration.—They will attempt to carry Maine by repudiating the administration in their papers, their speeches and their convention resolutions, but if they should succeed, they would at once turn a square corner and go in for the Charleston nominee and the national spoils in 1860.

The Administration Betrayed. Extensive Defection among the National Office-Holders in Maine.

More unfortunate than his dishonored predecessors, Buchanan has been in the selection he has made of those who share his official confidence and patronage. However worthy his office-holders may be in other respects, there can be no doubt that there are large numbers in their ranks who are making an outside show of their fidelity to their master at Washington, while they are secretly playing into the hands of his violent opponents at home. He is betrayed in the house of his friends.—There can be no doubt that those involved in this grand breach of party faith are very numerous in Maine.

Sewall and Smart having been turned out of the Custom House, it is not to be expected that they and their special representatives would be so anxious to endorse doctrines that will "pass muster in the Mississippi valley," as they were in the reign of Pierce. But the public were struck with surprise when it was seen how easily the Democratic members of the Legislature were induced to take a position antagonistical to the policy and voice of the party in other States. At the time, we supposed this singular turn of things was owing to the superior tact and adroitness of the gentlemen from Camden and Oldtown, and their special friends. But it is now clearly evident that the rebellion has the private sanction of a large majority of the national office holders in the State.

The fight which the men of the Custom House and Post Offices are making against the Douglasites is all a sham. While professing fidelity to Buchanan and Cabinet at Washington they are secretly conniving with the Sewall and Smart wing to throw the State into their hands.

But few of the office-holders were original selections of the present Administration, but were appointed by Pierce largely from the Soft wing. As a new Presidential contest begins to draw nigh they are preparing to adapt themselves to the new order of things. Thus PRESIDENT BUCHANAN IS BETRAYED by those who are sharing his confidence and bounty. Dickinson, Moor, and a half dozen others, remain faithful and are fighting with energy for their Chief, but the great majority of the national office-holders are engaged in a sham fight, while they are deep in the work of treason. It remains to be seen if the watchful eyes of Slidell and Cobb do not discover what is going on.

THE PIKE'S PEAK GOLD DIGGINGS. The Nebraska Advertiser of Feb. 4th gives intelligence, said to be derived from parties just from the gold diggings at Pike's Peak. One of them, an old California adventurer, pronounces the Cherry Creek mines equal to any in California. Those now mining under many disadvantages, are making from $2 to $12 and often $16 per day—five to thirty-three cents per pan. Gold is found from the surface down to the bed rock, a depth averaging fifteen feet. The only difficulty at present is the want of water, but as companies have already organized to furnish this needful element, it is thought no trouble will hereafter be experienced.

The gold yet found to any extent is what is termed "float gold," and quicksilver will necessarily have to be used to a considerable extent in collecting the finer and more valuable particles. Shot gold has been discovered to some extent, and old miners are confident of finding "nugget gold" in the spring. But little prospecting has yet been done in the mountains, although it is said that gold has been discovered in satisfactory quantities along the base of the mountains, from New Mexico to Fort Laramie. Water power is abundant on all the streams in the vicinity.

The reader should bear in mind that the above is only the bright side of the story, and that there are doubtless drawbacks to offset the numerous attractions. "All is not gold that glitters."

HAYTI.—A more checkered history than that of the island of St. Domingo has fallen to the lot of no portion of America. Discovered by Columbus on his first voyage, and named by him Hispaniola, its fertility and beauty early attracted the attention of the Spanish emigrants to the new world. The extermination of the aborigines was a tedious labor, which the Spaniards undertook, but did not complete till nearly two centuries had elapsed. The introduction of African slaves prepared the Island for its present condition. The French fugitives from St. Kitts, in the year 1630, gave the national coloring to the west end of the island; the eastern end, now the republic of Dominica, remaining Spanish.

It was from this island that the Buccaneers had their origin, and here too the "Fillibusters" first found a "local habitation and a name."—Throughout a considerable part of the seventeenth century, the French and Spanish had a series of struggles, which ended in Spain's formally giving up the west end of the island. In 1791 came the revolt of the blacks, and in 1893 the massacre of the whites. Then Toussaint l'Ouverture appeared, the most chivalrous and romantic of negro heroes. There is scarcely a more touching episode in history than the rise and fall of this brave and high-minded black. The fall of the great Napoleon seems almost like a spectral retribution, when we remember how Toussaint l'Ouverture, trusting to French generosity, was thrown into a French prison to suffer and die.

After Toussaint came Dessalines and a new insurrection. This second of the negro heroes made himself Emperor, under the title of James I, in 1804, and two years afterwards fell by the hand of an assassin. Then came the division of the island, a kingdom in the North and a republic in the South. The civil war or 1821, and the name Boyer made another epoch. Boyer was one of the ablest of the Haytien statesmen. His republican rule was a dictatorial one, but it gave more peace and prosperity to the island than it had ever known.

The revolution of 1842, which overthrew Boyer, began the period of disorder and misrule in which Soulouque became a prominent actor. A new era is begun now. The empire is at an end. Whether a separate republic will be maintained, or whether there will be a union with the republic of the Spanish end of the Island, is a question that cannot be decided by the news thus far received. If we get Cuba, we must also have Hayti.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

MANUFACTURING CHINESE BRAVERY. A letter from an officer serving in the Chinese expedition, gives the following laughable order for the day, published by one of the Chinese commanders, directing his soldiers what to do, to overcome their enemies. It is drawn up in the form of a training bill of fare for thirteen days: "This is commenced by me, the Chief of the Braves. Let all tremble and obey. On the thirteenth day before the battle, they must eat jelly made from tiger's flesh, in order to imbibe the rage and ferocity of that animal; twelfth day before, the roasted liver of a lion, in order to have the intrepidity of that noble beast; eleventh, stewed serpents, to acquire cunning; tenth, extract of camelion, to deceive their enemies by changing color; ninth, crocodile broth to make them amphibious, and be able to pursue and fight their enemies both on land and on water; eighth, jaguar's liver cooked in wine, in order to have the rapidity and fury of that quadruped; seventh hawks' head, in order to have the quick eye of that bird in distinguishing the enemy; sixth, zebra's intestines, to be able to imitate the cry of that animal; fifth, hippopotamus' brains to make the body impenetrable to bullets; fourth, stewed monkeys, to acquire the activity of that race; third, scorpions, in order that all the wounds inflicted by them may be as venemous as the sting of those reptiles. On the day before the battle, the raw breast of a panther, in order to be as pitiless as that animal, and on the morning of the battle they must drink a drop of leopard's blood, in order that they may imitate that animal, which never turns round while devouring its prey. Tremble and obey."

Louis Napoleon is now said to possess a navy that, in effective strength, is not inferior to that of England.—Exchange.

Yes—but he hasn't got the Englishmen to man his navy.

ODD FELLOW'S JUBILEE. The 26th of April next being the fortieth anniversary of the establishment of the Order of Odd Fellows in this country, it has been proposed in various places that the recommendation of the Grand Lodge of the United States for a Convention of the Order, to be held in New York on that day, be complied with.

Bayard Taylor says the hot houses of the Czars, in lat 60 north, contain the finest collection of tropical plants in Europe. Palm trees are sixty feet in height, and there are banks of splendid orchards. The hot houses are about a mile and a half in length.

There is much talk, just now, in the Boston papers, about a "betterment law," petitions for which are before the Massachusetts Legislature. The proposed act provides that in cities and towns where it may be adopted, the owners of real estate may be assessed for a moiety of the "betterment" of its value, arising from public improvements.

State vs Daniel O'Neil. Charged with breaking and entering the dwelling house of Hosea Ricker in Lee, and stealing therefrom $23 in bills from one Nath'l E. Mussy.

Mr. Garnsey for the defense, moved to quash the indictment as insufficient. The Co. Atty. entered a nol. pros. as to the burglary, and the trial proceeded on a charge for Larceny. The testimony for the Government consisted principally of the confession of the prisoner, made to G. S. Bean, a Deputy Sheriff, who arrested him, but it appearing that inducements were held out to him to confess, he did so, and the money was found in the stable, and the confession being objected to, the Court declined to receive it,—whereupon the County Attorney entered a nol. pros., and the prisoner was discharged.

State vs Town of Corinth. Indictment for bad road. Heard without a jury. Judgment Guilty, and a fine of $500 assessed, to be worked out next season.

H. K. Dexter for town.

State vs Thomas Belcher. Breaking and entering the stable of Wm. Low, night of 8th of December, and stealing a harness. Belcher sold the harness to one Willey, of Hermon, for $2. His plea in the lower Court was Guilty.

Crosby for State. Kimball for dft.

The Court intimated to Attorneys that exceptions, motions in arrest, &c., filed in criminal cases, this term, would not avail if filed for frivolous cause, and merely for delay.

State vs Nath'l Tibbets of Oldtown. Charged with burglary from the store of Benjamin Gowen. A special plea of misnomer was put in, alleging the true name of prisoner to be Nath'l R. Tibbets, and the question being submitted to the jury, it was found that he was as well known by the name of Nath'l Tibbets as Nath'l R. Tibbets. The trial then proceeded on the merits.

Knowles for State. Kimball for dft.

ANOTHER COASTING ACCIDENT. We learn from the Union that a son of Watchman Wiley, while coasting on Thursday evening, was run into by a "pointer" sled, and came near losing his life. He received a severe scalp wound of some inches in length, laying the skull bare. The wound was dressed by Dr. Searey.

THE EIGHTH NIGHT BALL, to be given in Portland on the evening of the 22d, by the Rifle Corps, is for the benefit of the Mt. Vernon Purchase Fund.

GARDINER BANK.—At a recent meeting of the stockholders of the Gardiner Bank, Jos. Bradstreet Esq., was chosen to fill the vacancy in the board of Directors occasioned by the death of Capt. Wm. B. Grant, late President of the Bank. The Directors subsequently chose for President, Wm. B. Grant Esq., of Farmingdale.

SMART BUSINESS IN ICE.—The Belfast Age says that at the village of Rockport, Messrs Norwood, Rust, & Co., will ship 3,000 tons of ice this season to Galveston, and other southern ports.

MARINE ITEMS.—Advices from Key West 10th inst, state that the ship Abby Linscheard, of Yarmouth, Me., from Havre, Dec 16 for New Orleans, went ashore on Orange Key 31st ult, and she was afterwards got off leaking badly and proceeded for Nassau, N. P.

Barque Brunette, of Belfast, Me., for Matanzas, which got ashore 27th ult at Long Branch, and was towed back to New York, cleared again 14th, having finished repairs.

The citizens of Thomaston have held two town meetings to consider the new county project. At the first they voted against the project of the new county, with Camden as the shire town, at the second they voted in favor of a new county, provided Thomaston could be made the shire town.

AN EDITORIAL ESCAPADE.—The editor of the Augusta Banner has had an escape. He says:

Last Friday afternoon week, as we were riding along the Gardiner Causeway, having our two children in the sleigh, we looked back, and a few rods behind us we saw a stage, with two horses attached, and running away at a furious gait. We whipped our own horse to the top of his speed, and just succeeded in reaching the head of the causeway, and turned out as the frantic horse reached us. It was the work of a moment to leave our own faithful animal and catch the runaways as they went by, and by a fortunate grasp, and an extra effort, we swung them about, and held them till the driver came, and prevented them from passing on to a point in the road where we saw several carriages, and where, perhaps, limb if not life might have been destroyed.—We hope not soon to have the sensations we we experienced when it was doubtful whether we could reach the turn in the road, with our precious freight, before the affrighted runaways should overtake us.

STORE BREAKING.—Last Saturday night a man whose name we have not learned, broke into Mr. Gould's store, west side, at about ten o'clock in the evening. He broke a pane of glass in the door, got in, clothed himself from the stock of goods, threw some articles out upon the sidewalk, when a gentleman passing discovered the rogue, obtained some help and had him seized and lodged in jail. When they entered to take him, he very innocently demanded why they were breaking into his store. Lewiston Advocate.

MALICIOUS MISCHIEF.—We learn that at the levee on Monday evening, the outer clothing of many of the ladies was wantonly mutilated by a set of boys who, to say the least, deserve a berth in the Reform School. The tassels or worsted balls were cut from the ladies' hoods, (many having been picked up in the street the next morning) rubbers were cut up or taken away, and the tips were cut from the end of fur collars. This juvenile rowdyism should not be permitted to go unpunished, and we advise the conductors of future similar occasions to watch the young scamps, and deal with them summarily, if they can be caught at such tricks.—Rockland Gazette.

A little daughter of Hon. L. K. Kimball was quite severely injured last week, by falling from the stairs, or the railing of the stairs, of the school house where she attended school. Rockland Dem.

ACCIDENT.—A little son of D. H. Hamilton, broke his leg while sliding down Mount David the other night.—Lewiston Adv.

ACCIDENTS.—Mr James Knight of Jefferson, last week while chopping in the woods broke his legs in a most shocking manner, and a boy of his got run over by an ox sled, and was seriously injured.—Bath Sentinel.

ACCIDENT.—A young man, Coburn by name, belonging in Gorham, was severely injured internally, and had one of his legs broken by the falling of a pile of boards on him at Bar Mills yesterday. Mr John Waterman, who was engaged with him, was considerably injured. There was about five M feet of lumber in the pile which fell.—Argus.

ANOTHER COASTING ACCIDENT.—An elderly lady named Palmer, fell in the main street at Fisherville, Concord, N. H., in consequence of coming in collision with a boy's coasting sled, and both of her legs and one arm were broken. It was thought her injuries would prove fatal. The accident occurred on Tuesday last.

The Asylum for Inebriates, at Binghampton, N. Y., intended for only 300 patients, will not be ready before next fall, but already there are 2800 applicants! and saddest fact of all, 400 of these are women!

MR. CRAIG'S STATEMENT.—We publish this morning the statement of the Agent of the Associated Press, Mr Craig, in answer to the charges made by Mr Geo. Lunt and Mr F. O J. Smith, before the Legislative Committee.—It will be seen that Mr Craig meets all these charges very fully, and takes direct issue with the assertions of his accusers. As the assailants, the burden of proof rests on Mr Lunt and Mr Smith, and it is for them now to prove if they can, their statements. The matter has thus come to precisely the attitude we predicted, and unless the assailants do make good their charges, the public will set them down as the offspring either of ignorance or malice. It is high time that the controversy were settled, and it seems now in a fair of final determination.—Boston Atlas & Bee.

Mr. B. F. Butler, a lawyer of Boston, is somewhat noted for his severity in examining witnesses. A correspondent of the Century relates:

"He was lately engaged in a legal case, in which Professor Horsford of Cambridge, was one of the witnesses. When Butler came to cross-examine him, he began in his usual style of unceremonious ferocity. The Judge mildly interposed, and said perhaps Brother Butler didn't know who the witness was, it was Professor Horsford—Professor of Harvard College. 'Oh, yes!' mumbled Butler, as he leisurely stroked his chin, 'Professor Horsford! Harvard Professor! Professor of Harvard College. Yes, we hung one of 'em t'other day!'"

TOUCHING INCIDENT. Some gentlemen passing through the beautiful village of Renton, in the vale of Leven, Dumbartonshire, about nine o'clock at night, a few days ago, had their attention directed to a dark object in the churchyard. On going to ascertain what it was, they found a boy of tender years lying flat on his face and apparently sound asleep over a recently made grave. Thinking this was not a very safe bed, they shook him up and asked him how he came to be there. He said he was afraid to go home, as his sister with whom he resided had threatened to beat him. "And where does your sister live?" asked one of the party. "In Dumbarton," was the answer. "In Dumbarton, nearly four miles off. And how came you to wander so far from home?" "I just cam," sobbed the poor little fellow, "because my mither's grave was here." His mother had been buried there a short time before, and his seeking refuge at her grave in his sorrows was a beautiful touch of nature in a child who could scarcely have yet learned to realize the true character of that separation which knows of no reunion on earth. Thither had he instinctively wandered to sob out his sorrows and to moisten with tears the grave of one who had hitherto been his natural protector, for he had evidently cried himself to sleep.—North British Daily Mail.

HORRIBLE OUTRAGE. The papers of St. Jerome, Canada, give the details of a most outrageous assault said to have been committed upon a woman in that parish. On a dark night of the last week, four men in disguise entered the peaceful dwelling of a man, his wife and two small children, and laying hold of the woman, took her out of bed, tore her clothes, and, half naked, forced her to leave the house, put her in a vehicle, and drove off with her.

After proceeding several miles they took the woman to a stable, tied her hands behind her back, put a clumsy collar around her neck, and fixing a cord to it, tied her up and left her. Shortly after one of them returned with the intention of cutting out her tongue, for the purpose of preventing her cries being heard, and had commenced to put her to this new torture, when he was recalled by his companions, who, seeing some one on the road, took to flight.

The next morning the owner of the stable found the woman in a most horrible state and nearly dead, her face covered with blood, with wounds on her hands and feet. In her efforts to prevent the villain from executing his purpose of cutting out her tongue, she had so much injured it that she was scarcely able to speak. She was taken home and proper attention paid to her. The cause of this infamous proceeding is believed to be the fact that the woman was a witness against one of its perpetrators, in a murder trial, last summer.

BRUSSELS LACE. The spinning of the fine thread used for lace making in the Netherlands is an operation demanding so high a degree of exquisite skill, minute manipulation, and vigilant attention, that it appears impossible that it can ever be taken from human hands by machinery. None but Belgian fingers are skilled in this art. The very finest sort of this thread is made in Brussels, in damp under ground cellars, for it will break by contact with the dry air above ground, and it is obtained in good condition only when made and kept in a humid, subterranean atmosphere.—There are numbers of old Belgian thread makers who, like spiders, have passed the best part of their lives spinning in cellars. This sort of occupation naturally has an injurious effect on the health, and the eye-sight of the operatives is impaired at an early age.

SUPPOSED LOSS OF THE BARK MIMOSA. The bark Mimosa, Capt. Geo. R. King, left Smyrna on the 19th of Sept. last for Boston, and nothing having since been heard from her it is supposed that she and all on board are lost.

To the Citizens of Bangor.

CITY OF BANGOR, January, 1859.

MR LEWIS WATERMAN, proposes to number the Streets of our city upon a plan which will mainly obviate the necessity of renumbering afterwards, on account of the erection of new buildings, as each street is to be carefully measured, and the numbers to be arranged with reference to such probable new erections. He comes with recommendations from other cities and towns where he had heretofore performed similar services, which are satisfactory to us. It is hoped that the citizens of Bangor will avail themselves of this opportunity for effecting the proposed improvement, the expense being small.

TO THE DAILY WHIG AND COURIER

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, 18th.

SENATE. Nothing of public interest transpired in the Senate during the morning hour. The private calendar was taken up and considered.

After the passage of a few private bills an important special message was received from the President, asking to protect the transit route.

The Message was debated by Messrs. Mason, Douglas and Davis, more or less in its favor, and by Messrs Seward and Fessenden thoroughly against granting the powers asked.

A partial debate took place on the motion to refer the message to the Committee on Foreign relations.

Messrs Clingman and Benjamin spoke briefly in support of the views of the message.

Mr Seward considered it a sad sight to see the President of these United States asking Congress to confer on him the war making power in order to assassinate his functions to those of European governments.

The passage of a bill granting the President such power as he asks would be virtually to surrender the powers of Congress and in opposition to the expressed precepts of the constitution.

Mr Fessenden expressed similar views, and cited the Paraguay expedition, which was to consist of a single ship and is now an armada of twenty sail, as an instance of how the President might plunge the nation into war. The President now comes forward and asks for general powers. It would be more rational to take military steps at once to have a king than blindly confer absolute powers.

Mr Douglas was glad the President had called attention to this subject. He considered that the President ought to have power to keep open the transit routes, and to protect our citizens and commerce. He ought to be invested with power summarily to enforce redress for any outrage committed upon our flag, citizens or property wherever it occurs. The executive of every other nation has it.

Mr Douglas did not mean to give a special vote of confidence to the present executive but was content to trust that power to him and his successor in all time.

Mr Davis of Miss, could not concur in the doctrine of Mr Douglas. There is no foreseeing to what limit it might extend if urged by ambition or by any other feeling. That we want to invest the executive with more power than our father gave, only marks the decadence of the American people.

Mr Davis would prefer the delay of Congressional action to the surrendering of a great constitutional principle, but did not understand the President as asking for undue or irresponsible powers.

Without action the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE. The House went into committee on the Army Appropriation Bill.

Mr Lovejoy attacked the army, saying he was credibly informed, and believed it was used to instigate wars and establish garrisons for the purpose of advancing the value of town lots. Some months ago, said he, there was a cry of extermination against the Mormons because they preferred white concubines to black ones. He was proceeding to reply to Mr Letcher's remarks touching nationality, when he was called to order by Mr Phelps of Mo.

Mr Curtis said he did not desire that our army should be like the militia of Mississippi, which according to an editor of that State, was all officers and no privates.

Mr Davis of Miss, interrupting, said that Mississippians unarmed were able to defend themselves against all invaders, foreign or domestic, with or without arms, to which Mr Curtis replied he did not mean to reflect upon the people of Mississippi, which disclaimer being satisfactory, the skies were clear again.

Mr Washburn of Ill, moved an amendment providing for the guarding of the military reservations against the depredations of trespassers ... [illegible]

Mr Faulkner offered an amendment abolishing brevet pay, saying there exists throughout the country a strong impression that brevet rank is demoralizing, and leads to subserviency and favoritism.

Mr Bonham opposed the amendment for the reason chiefly that it would cut down the pay of the commanding general, who had fairly won every honor bestowed upon him. The amendment was rejected 42 against 80.

Other amendments were acted on when the committee rose.

Mr Nichols of Ohio, asked leave to offer the following. Whereas, in the correspondence of the New York Daily Times of the 15th of Feb. ... and also in the correspondence of other papers, it is charged that a member of the Committee on Accounts has made a bargain to receive money as a consideration for allowing certain claims therein, and that subsequently the said member demanded money for the service, and whereas, it is further alleged that a member of said Committee compelled the claimant to agree to give a portion of the bills passed before the Committee consideration for their allowance. Therefore, resolved that a Committee of five be appointed to investigate said charges and report before the close of the present session.

Mr Burnett of Ky, was tired of Investigating Committees, which resulted in nothing. He was examining into charges of corruption implicating members of the House. But in the present case he raised a question of order namely that no specific charges have been made against any member by name.

The Speaker decided the resolution to be in order.

Mr Letcher of Va., suggested a committee of three, who could sooner get through the work than five.

Mr Nichols of New York understood the evidence on which the Times' article was based was ... A man who wrote a letter a year ago exonerating every one from blame ... made an affidavit that his former statement was false.

Mr Bonham of S. C., wanted the name of the member charged to be stated.

Mr Nichols said that no name was mentioned in the Times article, and that all the Committee are involved in the charge.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Adjourned.

WASHINGTON, 18th.

The President transmitted a message similar to that sent to the Senate, to the House today asking Congress to entrust with him extraordinary powers for the protection of the lives and property of American citizens, but it was not laid before that body.

It took the Senators generally by surprise. The large number of the general appropriation bills yet to be acted upon, including those for the army, navy, post office, miscellaneous and the ocean mail service, together with the measures for relieving the Treasury, and other subjects, will have to be crowded into as many hours as there should be days for their intelligent consideration.

There is a strong probability that the Committee on Ways and Means will report one or more tariff bills next Monday.

The indications are more favorable that a revised tariff will pass the House at least.— The Senate is more doubtful.

It is said that Mr. Phelps is determined to launch his bill and trust it to the currents of the House.

The Morrill bill in many of its specific places part of the duty on weight and part on value, obviating the usual objection by the enemies of specific duties. Under this bill the duties are much lower on low priced cloth than on fine. The same principle prevails in cottons, silks and linens—the common qualities thus paying less than the more expensive. It is said experienced men concede that it can be executed at much less than the present revenue law. They estimate that on an average importation of goods, which under the present tariff would realize $45,000,000, will under this bill realize $60,000,000. Its average rate of duties will be less than the average under the tariff of 1846, but will, it is claimed, be more satisfactory in its discriminations to the various interests of the country. Such at least are the representations of its friends.

NEW YORK, 18th.

The Paris correspondent of the Commercial Advertiser says M. Felix Belly announced on the 28th of January the complete organization of the Nicaragua Canal Co., that the necessary money is secured and that in three weeks he would embark from Havre for Greytown with engineers and others for the commencement of the work. The Prince Jerome headed the subscription with 60,000 francs and the Count Chambord and Duke Montpensier had each subscribed a large sum. The Company had made application to the Grand Duke Constantine and the Arch Duke Maximilian to assume by liberal subscription a protectorship in the scheme.

The steamship Africa, from New York, arrived at Liverpool at 9 PM, on Saturday 29th ult.

The Commercial Advertiser has private advices from Hong Kong of the 14th of December.

News had been received at Shanghae that Lord Elgin's fleet was fired into by the rebels from a port beyond Nankin, while on their way up the Yangtse Kiang, and that the fire was returned. As nothing had been received direct from Lord Elgin, the extent of the affair was not known, the reports varying materially with regard to particulars.

Legislature of Maine.

THURSDAY, Feb. 17.

In the Senate.

Bills giving further remedies against Attorneys at Law came from the House passed to be engrossed. The Bill was read once and Mr Barron moved to assign Wednesday next for a second reading.

Mr Carleton moved a suspension of the rules so as to give the resolve a second reading at the present time.

Mr Fletcher could see no objection to proceeding with the bill, and if the lawyers were to be strung up, it might be as well done at one time as another. The motion to suspend prevailed.

The bill was then read a second time.

Mr Barron moved to amend section 1 so as to provide that the bill should relate to collections heretofore, as well as those hereafter made.

Mr B. had made inquiries of lawyers who concurred in the opinion that the retrospective action proposed was constitutional, and right. It was designed to meet past as well as future cases. It was designed to make what was not inaptly termed in the House "legal pirates" disgorge, whether the plunder has already been obtained or may hereafter be obtained.

The amendment was agreed to.

The bill then passed to be engrossed.

Bill to incorporate the Portland Kerosene Oil Manufacturing Company passed to be engrossed.

Mr Stinchfield, from the Committee on Interior Waters, reported order of notice on petition of Rufus S. Porter and others, relating to obstructions in Pushaw Pond. Accepted.

Mr Davis from the Committee on Incorporation of Towns, reported a bill to annex the town of Seaville to Mt Desert and Tremont.

Mr Marshall, from the Committee on Banks and Banking, reported a bill to reduce the capital stock of Ticonic Bank, Waterville, ($25,000.)

In the House.

Petitions presented and referred—Of William Clark and 40 others, that Wm Witham may be removed from the office of Justice of the Peace by address or impeachment; of St John Smith and others, for incorporation as the International Bank, of Portland.

On motion of Mr. Drown of Orland.

Ordered, That the Judiciary Committee be instructed to inquire into the expediency of changing the present lien law on vessels.

Mr Lebroke of Foxcroft, from the Committee on the Judiciary, reported an order to inquire into the expediency of additional legislation relating to set off, that legislation is inexpedient. Accepted.

PROVIDING FOR THE EVIL DAY. The Emperor Soulouque, it appears, provided for the evil day which at last has come upon him, by placing $2 500,000 in the London banks. He had $150,000 in gold, in his palace when he abdicated, besides about $1,000,000 of the paper currency of the empire. He took the gold with him, but left the paper which was seized by the mob.

A PRINCELY ESTATE. We learn that Major Leland, of the Metropolitan Hotel, New York, has settled among us, having purchased the Comal Ranch of Col. Sparks, fronting the Guadalupe river two miles, and laying 20 miles west of New Braunfels in Comal county; and about 30 miles nearly north from San Antonio—all in one body of some ten thousand acres, with the improvements thereon, and some 460 acres under fence near Mr. G. W. Kendall's celebrated sheep farm. In his purchase of stock of Col. Sparks, there are some 3000 sheep, 750 head of cattle, 250 head of horses and mules, besides working oxen, a Maltese jack, two Brahmah bulls, and the celebrated race horse Rockway, and also 1000 hogs, goats, &c., making a clean purchase of the whole premises, amounting to $100,750, the largest sale ever made in Texas of any stock farm. — Galveston News.

Mothers! Mothers! Mothers!

Don't fail to procure Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. It has no equal on earth. It greatly facilitates the process of teething, by softening the gums, reducing all inflammation—will allay all pain and is sure to regulate the bowels. Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves and relief and health to your infants. Perfectly safe in all cases.

This valuable preparation is the prescription of one of the most experienced and skilful female Physicians in New England, and has been used with never failing success in millions of cases.

We believe it the best and surest remedy in the world in all cases of Dysentery and Diarrhoea in children whether it arises from teething or from any other cause.

If life and health can be estimated by dollars and cents it is worth its weight in gold.

Millions of bottles are sold every year in the United States. It is an old and well tried remedy.

PERRY DAVIS'
Vegetable Pain Killer!

REV T. ALLEN, writing from Tavoy, Burmah, says:—Within the past four years I have used and disposed of above five hundred bottles, but am now out. Please send me a fresh supply (through the Mission Rooms) as soon as you can, say two hundred bottles. I dare not be without it myself, and there are endless calls for it, both by Karens and Burmans. I always take it with me into the jungles, and have frequent occasions to use it both on myself and others.— One night, while sleeping in an open Zayat, I was awoke by a most excruciating pain in my foot. On examination I found I had been bitten by a Centipede. I immediately applied the Pain Killer; and found instant relief. In less than an hour I was again asleep.

Rev H. L. Van Meter, of Bassein, India, writes.—Here let me assure you that we prize your Pain Killer very highly. For the first two or three years of our residence in India we were ignorant of its valuable properties, and did not use it, but now would hardly feel safe without it for a single day. Only a few nights since Mrs. Van Meter was stung by a scorpion, and intense pain was instantaneous throughout the arm, and soon a numbness of the fingers followed. By the continued application of the Pain Killer for an hour or more and at intervals during the night, the alarming symptoms were subdued, and in the morning only a slight soreness was felt in the finger. I gave it in a severe case of Fever and Ague, according to directions, and it acted like a charm, breaking it up at once. The Karens have great confidence in it.

Mr W. L. Carpenter writes from Calcutta,— "Perry Davis' Vegetable Pain Killer is a very valuable medicine, and most people here that have used it entertain a high opinion of its worth."

BOMBAY, Dec 4th, 1857

Messrs P. Davis & Son—Gents We have sold the shipment of Pain Killer per ship Martha, and hope to close that per Equestrian in a few days. Herewith find a draft for £50 on the Mercantile Bank of India, London and China to your order. Hope to remit you soon for sale ex Squantum and Art Union. Yours truly,

DOSSABHOY, HARWARREN & Co

MELBOURNE, Australia, May 14, 1858.

Messrs. P. Davis & Son—Gents: The "S H Talbot," with 54 boxes, and the "State of Maine," with 46 boxes, of your valuable Pain Killer, have arrived, and the Pain Killer is sold at 10s per dozen. Neither of the lots are landed yet, but we hope they will be in time for us to forward your account sales and remittance by this mail. These two shipments are divided among four different buyers, two of whom would each have taken the whole lot, if we would allow it. This is the best comment we can make on your Pain Killer. Send us frequent shipments. NEWELL, HOOPER & STEVENS.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

On account of the numerous frauds and impositions on travelers, those bound to California are cautioned to buy Tickets at the only authorized Agencies of the United States Mail Line as below.

By order of the Post-master General, the United States Mail steamers will hereafter be despatched from New York to Aspinwall, on the 5th and 20th of each month.

Passengers are landed at the Railroad Depot, Aspinwall, and conveyed across to the Pacific Steamers without any extra expense. This is the only line giving entire Through Tickets, guaranteeing no detention on the Isthmus.

Transit made in four hours entirely by daylight, thus avoiding the great exposure by night in open boats to fever and ague, and 200 miles of dangerous lake and river navigation, over rocks and shoals.

Arrangements have now been completed so that the regular U S Pacific Mail Steamer will leave Panama for San Francisco immediately on arrival of the Atlantic Mails and passengers, thus securing passengers by the Mail Line a sure and short passage, with the greatest comfort and safety to health.

Tickets must be signed by one of the Company's Agents before they will be recognized by the Agent at Panama, and tickets thus signed can be obtained of the only authorized Agent for the U. S. and Pacific Mail Steamship Companies, in this city.

LINCOLN'S WATER PROOF BLACKING, AND LEATHER PRESERVATIVE.

Keep your Feet dry and you will seldom need a Physician.

It is not a truth that when the feet are often wet, it is one of the greatest causes of colds and consumption? It is a truth that when leather is often wet and dried, it soon becomes hard, stiff, and cracks, but when it is water-proof these remedied. By the application of this preservative, it remains soft, and entirely impervious to water.

After being engaged for 25 years in the manufacture of Leather in all its branches, and being often troubled with wet feet myself, I was led to experimenting on different compositions, and found it easy to make it water-proof, but at the same time extremely injurious to the leather. At last by a chemical process, I discovered a preparation which perfectly harmonises with the astringent properties with which leather is tanned. It will not only make leather water-proof, but likewise softens the leather, and it will Positively wear twice as long.

I have now used it for three years, and a large part of that time have worked in a wet Tannery with my boots constantly in water, and have not had my feet wet during that time. I can therefore in all confidence, recommend it to the public as the best article in the market.

THE LUXURY AND PROFIT OF HONEY MAKING.

Torrey's Bee Hive.

The subscriber, having purchased the right of making and selling Lanes' Patent Bee Hive for the Counties of Penobscot, Lincoln and Hancock, which has been received with so much favor, and taken the first premiums wherever exhibited, has introduced an improvement into the Bee Hive and is now prepared to make the same in connection with the Davis Platform, and to sell rights to towns and individuals.

This Bee Hive, thus improved, is admitted by persons acquainted with the honey-making business to be superior to every thing yet invented for the purpose. It secures all the requisites for the profitable maintenance of the apiary, by providing for ventilation at all seasons of the year—room for the exercise and food of the bees—convenience for the removal of excrement, for the proper separation of the swarms, and generally for the health and comfort of the workers.

The boxes used in this Hive for storing honey, are the best adapted in their use, for the market, holding from three to six pounds each.

The subscriber wishes to purchase one hundred swarms of bees in exchange for bee hives and in dividual rights.

For sale, fifty swarms of Bees, with the new hives.

DR. HOBENSACK'S Worm Syrup and Liver Pills.

Probably one reason why Worm Medicines so frequently fail of any good effect is the fact that they contain no qualities except as Worm Killers. Consequently in many instances where we mistake the symptoms of disease and doctor for worms, when the cause of disease is not worms but a derangement of the system and consequent debility and ill health no good result follows, whereas in the use of Dr. Hobensack's medicine, it being an active remedial agent, as well as worm killer, the patient immediately gets well, though no worms are brought away.

This it will be readily seen that it possesses many advantages over other worm medicines, as it is not only sure to kill and bring away the worms, but builds up and restores the patient to general health, besides.

Many persons suffer severely by sore or weak eyes. The reflecting of the sun on the snow almost blinds them, their eyes water when they are exposed to a slight wind, or have to travel or ride in the open air, a strong light blinds them, they suffer a smarting, burning sensation, as if dust was thrown in the eye, they are unable to read or write by gas or lamp light. American Safety Paper Manufacturing Company of N. Y.

Capital $500,000.

A. Nicholas, President. Office, 70 Wall-st.

A Perfect Security against all manner of Fraud or Counterfeiting on Paper—To Prevent Photographs and Anastatic Counterfeits, Erasures, Transfers or Alterations.

Having purchased the Patent for the exclusive right to manufacture and sell the Chemical Paper in America, invented and patented in England by Henry Glynn, a celebrated chemist and officer in the British army, it is hardly necessary to say that the Paper is recommended by Mr. Kent, Assayer of the U. S. Mint, Mr Lyman of the New York Clearing House, and Meade Brothers, extensive and skillful photographers, 233 Broadway, N. Y. The latter say that no imitation can be made on a check or bank note printed on the Safety Paper. Below is our list of prices:

Bank Checks—25 cts. per lb.
Bank Bills—$18 for 1000 sheets.
Bills of Exchange—$25 for 1000 sheets.
Promissory Notes—40 cts per lb
Sight and Time Drafts—$25 for 1000 sheets.
Insurance Policies—40 cts. per lb.
Railroad Stocks and Bonds—40 cts. per lb
Bank and State Stocks—40 cts. per lb.
Bonds and Mortgages—40 cts. per lb.
Wills and Deeds—40 cts. per lb.

For wrapping Silks and other fine articles it is excellent, as it prevents moths. 40 cts. a lb.

All State and County Records should always be printed or written on this paper, as the chemicals inserted in the pulp not only prevents erasure or transfer, but makes it lasting as time.

For Southern climates it is excellent, and much superior to any other; as the moisture of the climate does not destroy it,—the properties inserted in the pulp being a preventive. In all the Southern States, Cuba, the West Indies, and the Central American States, no public records can be kept over 20 years, written on the ordinary paper, while the oils and other chemicals inserted in this paper makes it indestructible by the ravages of time. It is also proof against moths, rats and other vermin, which feast on and destroy all other paper now in use.

The Company have now in operation Mills in Morris County, N. J., of about 300 horse power, and are able to fill all orders for Paper at the shortest notice.

All orders for the Paper must be addressed to A. NICHOLAS, President of the Company, No. 70 Wall street, New York

American & Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY,

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington under the Act of 1837,)

76 State St., opposite Kilby St.,
BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States, also, in Great Britain, France, and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with despatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing Patents, of ascertaining the patentability of inventions unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The Testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber, and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate. The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining Patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington, to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS MASON," Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents

"Boston February 8 1858.

Mr R H Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, on all but one of which patents have been granted, and that is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGERT"

From Sept. 17th, 1857, to June 17th, 1858, the subscriber, in course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided in his favor, by the Commissioner of Patents.

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR!

PREPARED BY DR. SANFORD,

Compounded entirely from Gums,

These Gums remove all morbid or bad matter from the system, supplying in their place a healthy flow of bile, invigorating the stomach, causing food to digest well, purifying the blood, giving tone and health to the whole machinery, removing the cause of the disease—effecting a radical cure.

Bilious attacks are cured, and, what is better prevented, by the occasional use of the Liver Invigorator.

One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach and prevent the food from rising and souring.

Only one dose taken before retiring prevents nightmare.

One dose of two tea spoonfuls will always relieve Sick Headache.

Only one dose immediately relieves Colic, while

One dose taken a short time before eating gives vigor to the appetite and makes the food digest well.

We take pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventive for Fever and Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a Bilious type. It operates with certainty, and thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.

All who use it are giving their unanimous testimony in its favor.

Mix water in the mouth with the Invigorator, and swallow both together.
